Synopsis

Intrigerend en meeslepend portret over de Sami, een rendierherdersvolk in Lapland en tevens het enige oorspronkelijke, inheemse volk dat Europa nog kent. Sami Blood brengt een onbekende kant van de Zweedse maatschappij in de jaren dertig van de vorige eeuw tot leven. Centraal staat de veertienjarige Elle-Marja (ijzersterke rol van Lene Cecilia Sparrok, zelf een volbloed Sami) en haar zoektocht naar haar identiteit. Op school ontdekt ze dat de mogelijkheden van de Sami zich beperken tot een herdersbestaan. Ze wordt herhaaldelijk geconfronteerd met discriminatie en begint te dromen van een ander leven. Vervolgonderwijs is niet voor de Sami weggelegd, maar Elle-Marja weigert zich hierbij neer te leggen. Om haar dromen na te kunnen jagen, wordt ze gedwongen afstand te doen van haar cultuur en de banden met haar familie te doorbreken.

Sami Blood is het filmdebuut van regisseur Amanda Kernell (zelf half Sami, half Zweeds) en ging in première tijdens het filmfestival van Venetië waar de film twee prijzen won.

Director's comment

Many older Samis left everything behind and became Swedish and I've always wondered; what happens to you if you cut all ties with your culture and history? And can you really become someone else?

Sami Blood is declaration of love to those who left and stayed – told from Elle Marja's perspective. I wanted to make a film where we see the Sami society from within, a film where we experience this dark part of Swedish colonial history in a physical way. A film with yoik and blood.
